

COLLEGE PLANS TO EXTEND HOSPITALITY PROVISION

Yeovil College is further growing its hospitality skills capacity with approval given for improvements to the facilities and a 60m² extension to the Da Vinci restaurant.

The project will benefit the hospitality learners and see restaurant space more than double. The restaurant is already open to the public so that learners can showcase their skills and talent. The project will include customer parking to make it even easier for Yeovil College to welcome learners, staff and members of the public to enjoy anything from morning coffee and a delicious cake to a three course meal.

Yeovil College Principal, John Evans said "I feel very excited about this latest stage in our hospitality provision. With the additional space and facilities, we're in a great position to build on the experience we already had and give learners even greater opportunities in this very popular curriculum area."

We look forward to welcoming everyone to the new-look restaurant which is destined to become one of the best restaurants in South Somerset!
